

Weekly Media Summary from the Media Relations team 29 March – 4 April 2014

Monday 31 March

Huffington Post - Stool-Sniffing Test Can Detect Bowel Disease, Say Scientists

BBC News - Atlantic Challenge rowers return home after 96-day trial

Buddy Power - Stool test 'accurate for diagnosing bowel diseases'

Society of Radiographers - Radiographer celebrates Professional Doctorate success

Medical News Today - New diagnostic test for bowel diseases

South West Business - Channel 5's The Gadget Show tonight: 3D ceramics printing business idea developed by UWE Bristol

Tuesday 1 April

Daily Mail - Infections. Heart problems. Even the menopause: What your nightmares reveal about your health

Bristol Post - For its beauty and its mysterious lawn, we'll miss 'mini Hogwarts'

Bristol Post – Hundreds of students at history conference

Bristol Post – Brits want to cycle more but are frightened to share roads

Wednesday 2 April

South West Business – Next week's Business Showcase South West – a celebration of innovation

Thursday 3 April

Bristol Post – Trash campaigners will not take Memorial Stadium fight to court

Western Daily Press – Defra's air pollution warning - thousands are put on smog alert

Bristol 24/7 - Air pollution: Bristol expert warns over endemic problem

Friday 4 April

Bristol Post – UWE Bristol Human Rights student wins internship

Media Appearances

Chris Alford was interviewed by BBC Radio Gloucester about sleep patterns and the effects of the clocks changing.

The Centre for Fine Print Research was featured on the 'Gadget Show' this week looking at 3D printing.

