

Media Summary 18-24 June 2016

News

Ten minutes on children's internet game enough to lower body satisfaction among young girls, study finds

Money management app created by UWE graduate attracts £1.5 million investment

UWE Bristol VC Steve West responds to the UK decision to leave the EU

Flying high: aerospace engineering student honoured by The Royal Aeronautical Society

Coverage

Bristol Post How will men's urine to be turned in to electricity at Glastonbury?

Daily Mail Just 10 MINUTES playing an internet 'makeover' game makes schoolgirls want a slimmer figure, alarming study reveals

Daily Mail The prepaid current account launched by a 22-year-old: Loot lets users budget on their smartphone - but could it replace a traditional bank account?

The Independent EU referendum: An open letter to UK voters from leaders of 103 British universities

The Independent Pee Power returns for Glastonbury 2016

Bristol 24-7 Pee power to light up Glastonbury

Start Ups Student money management app Loot lands £1.5m

Bristol Business Post Money app created by graduate gains £1.5 million investment

Bristol 24-7 Girls want to be slimmer after internet game

BT.com Playing appearance-focused internet games 'has a negative impact on children's body image'

Metro Do your kids play these games? You should probably read this

ITV News Glastonbury loos powered by pee

Parent Herald Free Internet Games For Girls Harmful? Here's What Experts Say About Makeover Games Like 'Dream Date Dress Up'

GoodtoKnow Free online games for young girls shown to 'significantly' lower body confidence

Broadcast

Dr Lisa Harrison (ACE), expert on UK elections and electoral systems, appeared on BBC Radio Bristol and BBC Radio Somerset discussing the EU referendum

Dr Amy Slater (HAS), Senior Research Fellow at the Centre for Appearance Research, was interviewed by Sam FM about her study into appearance-focused internet games for children

Professor Ioannis Ieropoulos (BRL), Director of the Bristol BioEnergy Centre, Bristol Robotics Laboratory, appeared on Made in Bristol TV about the pee power urinal at Glastonbury Festival