

Media Coverage Summary 2 – 8 July 2016

Print/web coverage

The Telegraph The role of universities is changing - we can't just focus on academia

The Independent Boxing clever with experiments in the classroom

Bloomberg Ricardo and Recycling Technologies to characterise plastic waste derived clean fuel

Bristol Business News Coveted Lawyer Award wins for two Bristol firms and city's Legal Advocacy Support Project

Animation World Network BBC World Service Partners with UWE to Bring Personal Stories to Life

Animation Magazine UWE Students Bring Personal Stories to Life for BBC

New Scientist What explains Brexit, Trump and the rise of the far right?

Produce Business UK Shelf-life extension project gears up for commercial application

The Times Law students to take course on sexual consent

South West Business UWE Bristol records above average graduate employment results

Live Science Plunging Neckline May Help Women Land More Job Interviews

BioPortfolio Public urinal generates electricity from urine

Bristol Post Plans for cyclists' stone bridge to the Downs in Bristol look set to be refused

Ed Quarter Worrying findings from Dream Date Dress Up

Elite Daily If You Were At This Festival, Your Pee Probably Got Turned Into Electricity

Huffington Post Toilets That Turn Urine Into Electricity To Be Installed In Refugee Camps

The Independent Make the most of university open days

Let's Recycle Swindon council to pilot plastics-to-fuel technology

The Independent Tesla autopilot crash: Fatal collision was tragic but self-driving technology should still continue, say experts

The Independent Thousands of graduates working in jobs that don't require any qualifications

Broadcast coverage

Diane Robison (HAS), Senior Lecturer in Forensic Science, featured on BBC Radio Wiltshire discussing advances in DNA technology

Dr Chris Pawson (HAS), Head of Psychology, was interviewed by BBC Points West, BBC Radio Bristol, BBC Radio Somerset and BBC Radio Gloucestershire about findings of research into urban gull behaviour

Richard Webb (ACE), Programme Leader for BA(Hons) Drawing and Print, was interviewed by BBC Radio 4's Front Row programme about UWE Bristol's partnership with the Arnolfini