

Media Coverage Summary 7-13 May 2016

Coverage

Bristol Post - Blacklisted construction workers to get £10m compensation pay out after Bristol UWE investigation

The Independent - Igniting interest in Stem by painting a bigger picture

The Independent - From course work to field work

Times Higher Education - Digital humanities scholars are like Silicon Valley 'disruptors'

Bristol Post - Campaign launched to stop young Bristol girls being mutilated

Bristol Post - Eddie Izzard heading to Bristol to make Bremain case

Bristol Business News - UWE reaches new heights as its £50m business and law building is 'topped out'

Arts Professional - Cultural policy favours a minority elite, academics tell Committee

Western Daily Press - Bristol Rovers put an end to legal battle over sale of Memorial Stadium

Business Reporter - How data lies at the heart of the driverless car revolution

BioPortfolio - New research could help would-be emergency room patients

Broadcast

Senior criminology lecturer Dr James Hoggett (HAS) was interviewed by BBC Radio Somerset about Police and Crime Commissioners.

Phil Chamberlain (ACE) and UWE PhD student Dave Smith were interviewed on BBC Radio 5 Live about construction workers who had been blacklisted by big building companies because they belonged to trade unions.

Senior forensic science lecturer Diane Robinson (HAS) was interviewed on BBC Radio Bristol about a police investigation which resulted in Christopher Hampton being convicted of the 1984 murder of Melanie Road following a DNA breakthrough.

Dr Julie Mytton (HAS), Associate Professor in Child Health, was interviewed by Breeze FM about new UWE research funded by the British Red Cross which could help would-be A&E attendees.

Economics lecturer Dr Jo Michell (FBL) was interviewed by BBC Points West about the EU referendum.

Professor Robin Hambleton (FET) was interviewed on Breeze FM about elected mayors.

Senior journalism lecturer Mike Jempson (ACE) was interviewed by BBC Radio Bristol about changes being made to regulation of the BBC

Professor Jim Longhurst (FET) was interviewed by Made in Bristol TV about air pollution levels in Bristol.