

Media Summary 25-31 October 2014

Coverage

South West Business – Bristol Distinguished Address Series: Stephen Varley, chairman of accountancy firm EY - 'Business is all about strong relationships'

Western Daily Press – New role for key figure at the University of the West of England

Times Higher Education – University Alliance names new chief executive

Bristol Post – Students warned to beware of payday lenders

University Business – UWE student is squash number one

Bristol Post – Bristol business digest

Silobreaker - How can we improve the way we communicate with people diagnosed with alzheimers

Silobreaker – UWE gets planning go ahead for new business and law building

South West Business – £50m faculty of Business and Law at UWE Bristol moves a step closer

University Business – UWE welcomes new Deputy VC

Bristol Post – In praise of UWE Bristol

Media Appearances

Steve Melia was interviewed by BBC Radio York about transport in York compared to Copenhagen and the lessons that can be learnt. Steve was also interviewed by BBC Points West taking about Filton Airfield development.

On 29 October BBC Points West interviewed Masters student Mohamed Elshorbagy on his new ranking as the world's number 1 squash player. UWE Centre for Sport's Strength and Conditioning Manager Steve Lock who has worked closely with Mohamed and runs UWE's high performance athlete programme was also interviewed.

Amy Slater was interviewed by Heart Radio and Jack Breeze FM about the study she is conducting into the impact social media has on body image.