It's Mental Health Awareness Week

This year the focus is on stress. And given that we're halfway through the exam season it couldn't be more timely!

We use the word stress day-to-day - but what does it really mean? How can it affect you? And what's the best way to cope?

We've pulled together some useful articles, resources and support information to help.

Have you had your MMR vaccination?

Measles cases are on the rise in the Bristol area, particularly in people aged 18 - 25. Measles isn't just a mild illness - it can cause serious complications.

The good news is that it's never too late to have the MMR (measles, mumps, rubella) vaccine to protect yourself against measles. If you haven't received two doses of the vaccine in the past - or you're unsure - talk to your GP.

Free screening to explore whether you might have a Specific Learning Difficulty

Struggled with your studies or exams this year? Ever thought that you could have dyslexia, dyspraxia or something similar?

We offer free screenings where you can discuss the areas affecting your studies with a specialist. They'll run through a checklist to help identify whether you have any SpLD traits. The screening isn't a diagnosis, but it can help you make an informed decision on whether to go ahead with a full diagnostic assessment.

If you're concerned about whether or not you have a SpLD please don't wait until September. Talk to us now so that we can put support in place for you over the summer.

Design artwork for our Centre for Appearance Research

We're looking for students from any course to submit ideas for artwork that can be used to illustrate the work of our Centre for Appearance Research (CAR).

If you win you'll receive £500 and you'll be credited when the artwork is used in CAR's printed promotional materials, online, in conference presentations and on social media.

The deadline for entries is 17:00 on Monday 25 June.

Read the competition rules and submit your entry \(login required\)

Printing satisfaction survey

We're interested to know about your experience of PHAROS printing so we've created a short survey to capture your feedback. There's ten lots of £5 printing credit to be won in the prize draw.

Money, money, money...

Reapply for your Student Finance

If you haven't already, make sure you reapply for your Student Finance by Friday 22 June otherwise your funding might not be in place for the start of the new academic year.

It's easy - just log into your Student Finance account, print off a new declaration form then sign and return it to Student Finance.

Think you know your stuff?

Our Money Advice and Funds Service have put together a student finance and money crossword puzzle for you to solve!

Test your knowledge of money and finance terms and email your answers to mafs@uwe.ac.uk by Thursday 31 May for the chance to win a £10 Amazon voucher.

Free travel on the first Metrobus service

The first Metrobus service from Emerson's Green to the city centre (via Frenchay Campus) launches on Tuesday 29 May.

The service, called the M3, will be a rapid alternative to the UWE Express. Some bus stops in the city centre will be different, such as the one by Marketgate halls. You can find a map of the full route on the Travelwest website.

To speed things up you have to buy your ticket before you get on the bus, from an iPoint at the Metrobus stop (bank cards only), through the First mTicket app or via a Travelwest smartcard.

To celebrate the launch you can travel on the M3 for free between Tuesday 29 May and Saturday 9 June. Give it a try – it should be faster than other bus journeys. The other two Metrobus services will launch later this year.

Roadworks on Broom Hill until January 2019

Roadworks have started today on Broom Hill, one of the main roads between Frenchay and Glenside campuses. Long delays are expected due temporary traffic lights, which will impact both Broom Hill and Frenchay Park Road.

Please consider using alternative routes and leave extra time for your journey, especially if you have an exam. The roadworks will be in place until January 2019.

STUDENT IDEAS

Is there something you think The Students' Union should be doing that we're not?
Submit a Student Idea and if it gets enough votes, we'll work to make it happen.

GREEN IMPACT

We've done loads over the past three years to champion and embed sustainability.

At Frenchay Campus we saved enough

This is your chance to be the change and make The Students' Union what you want it to be, so speak up and let us know.

You can also vote on any that you think are a good idea, so take a look at what other students have been suggesting and cast your votes now.

First glimpse of our new Engineering building

Work on our new engineering building will begin this summer, and we're excited to reveal the artist's impressions of how it could look.

Subject to planning consent, the building will be located next to the new Bristol Business School at the heart of Frenchay Campus and will open in summer 2020.

Glenside:

New cycle and pedestrian path through Glenside Campus

Construction work begins tomorrow (Tuesday 15 May) on a new cycle and pedestrian greenway through Glenside Campus.

This will re-open the abandoned gate on Blackberry Hill and create a new path leading to the main reception and the White Lodge entrance. It'll improve the connection to the Bristol cycle network and is part of a wider project to improve cycle routes in the area. The new path will open later this summer.
