Description

Lillebaelt Academy—University of Applied Sciences is Southern Denmark's largest business academy. It was established 1 January 2009 by the merging of smaller higher education colleges. It has a reputation for strong cooperation with industry and research institutions.

Arrangements for incoming exchange students include an introductory week, team building, events, and parties.

Surrounding Area

Odense is the third largest city in Denmark and one of the oldest cities in Denmark. It has a long and exciting history and is probably most famous for being the birth city of fairy tale writer Hans Christian Andersen. Odense has the largest number of students per capital of all cities in Denmark and is a very international city. It is a metropolis and cultural centre with museums, theatres and music venues. It is also a green and lively city with many parks and gardens.

Accommodation

Accommodation is guaranteed for exchange students. Most students are housed in Lillebaelt Academy's International student hostel, which is situated 5km from the University.
