

Media Summary 04 – 17 April

Coverage

Bristol Post – Construction work to start on UWE Bristol £50 million Faculty of Business and Law

Builder and Engineer – ISG appointed on £50 million UWE Bristol campus scheme

South West Business – Construction work to start on UWE Bristol's £50 million building

Bath Chronicle – Hard work doesn't pay waitress owed £6,000

South West Business - £50K funding to nourish north Somerset food industry

Electronic Specifier – Pee-power could bring light to refugee camps

Process and Control Today - Ashtead Technology helps Bristol schoolchildren monitor local air quality

Insider Media - Life science industry support organisation launches

South West Business – British Distinguished Executive Address: Ex-minister Angela Knight says rethink needed on funding for new power stations

South West Business – General Election 2015 in Bristol and beyond

IndyMedia - Is UK investigative journalism dying or can the internet deliver?

Western Daily Press – Artistic talents to find new champion on the harbourside

Media Appearances

Professor John Parkin from the Centre for Transport and Society gave an interview to BBC Radio 5 Live explaining traffic signals.

Dr Chris Alford was interviewed for a programme about Luke Jerram for Bloomberg as part of a new series called Brilliant Ideas about artists from all around the world.

Professor Alan Winfield was interviewed for a Channel 4 documentary aired recently called End of the World Night.

Ben Williams from the Air Quality Management Resource Centre was interviewed by Made in Bristol TV about the recent air pollution across England.

Dr Lisa Harrison is providing commentary to local and national media for the forthcoming General Election, to date she has been interviewed by BBC Radio Bristol, BBC Radio Somerset, Bristol Post and BBC Radio 4.