

Media Summary 13-18 Feb 2016

Coverage

Bristol Post – Bristol researchers create new prostate cancer test that smells the cancer in urine

Mail on Sunday – New prostate cancer test smells disease urine spare men invasive procedures

Western Daily Press – Giving the region the skills it requires with Skills for Life

The Guardian – Marvin Rees the Bristolian bearing the weight of labour hopes

Chartered Society of Physiotherapy – Physio students help university staff get fit

Premier Construction news – UWE Bristol

Times Higher Education – Marketing Professor calls greater business engagement

Bristol Post – Taking inspiration from the military to tackle student anxieties

Huffington Post – University Launches Mental Health Programme For Its Students, Based On The Military

Independent – Student nurse saves life in theatre drama

The Guardian – We need a new language to talk about economy

Fox News – New diagnostic device that smells prostate cancer in urine could save lives

Broadcast

Rona Lockyer-Sheppard, Midwifery Programme Leader, and student midwives Georgina and Jessica talked about the importance of Perinatal Mental Health training provided at UWE Bristol for student midwives on BBC Radio 5 Live.

Senior Wellbeing Practitioner Glyn Williams and student Jenny Rabin were interviewed about Emotional Resilience for BBC Radio 5 Live, and took part in the live show. They also took part in a live broadcast at BBC Radio Bristol.

Dr Jason Mansell (HAS) is being interviewed tonight by ITV West Country about his research into making titanium implants that bond better with bones.